

FARM LOANS

This company accepts first mortgage loans on farms, when duly approved as security for money loaned.

We are, therefore, always glad to hear from those who own real property, and who require funds for building or other purposes, or who are contemplating the purchase of new farms; and we are, as a rule, prepared to advance such funds, if the property is of recognized value and the desired loan relatively reasonable.

It is always requisite that there shall be a wide margin between the market value of the property and the amount of the loan for which the property is offered as security.

We aim to be as liberal as possible in all cases, however; and those who seek loans of this character will do well to consult with us. Write to the following address giving full particulars.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Monroe First to Sign With Paris.

Edward Monroe, a Louisville boy, is the first to sign a contract with the Paris baseball club. Monroe was a member of the team last year and was considered a most promising youngster. The Louisville Times of a recent date contained a picture of Monroe together with the following:

"Following the custom of several other minor league organizations the Paris team of the Blue Grass League, which makes a little extra money each season by selling promising talent has cast its net toward Louisville, and has succeeded in landing what the Falls City fans consider a 'diamond in the rough.' The name of this individual is no other than Edward Monroe, a resident of the Southern part of Louisville, who makes a business of serving plants from his mighty wing.

"If the size counts for anything Monroe should develop into a winning slabsman within a brief period, for he stands six feet four and a half inches and weighs close to 190 pounds. He has plenty of speed and a nice assortment of twisters.

"Last season Monroe worked for the Fanelli Bros. team at Jeffersonton, which was under the able management of Walter Harris, who is somewhat of a ball player and all around athlete himself. Out of thirteen starts against some of the fastest amateur teams in this section Monroe managed to land eleven victories. He had an average of allowing five hits a game and many of the batters who faced him were turned back to the bench without even touching the horsehide. Harris says that Monroe has all the earmarks of a coming twirler, and with a little coaching from the 'old heads' he is sure to put over many a winner for the Paris club the coming season. Monroe is well known to the West end fans, for he pitched several games at Reccius Park last season for the Parkland Stars before joining the Fanelli Bros.

"Monroe tried out with the Paris club near the close of the 1912 campaign and demonstrated that he can make good in fast company by hurling a one hit contest against Richmond on his first time out as a professional. He is eighteen years old and last season marked his first appearance in a uniform. His many friends here predict a great future for him. His signed contract is now in the hands of the Paris management."

Says Morgan Was Not Killed in War.

The Kansas City Star of a recent date, published the following story, which it says is just to set history right, but as every Kentuckian knows, there is an undisputable proof that Gen. Morgan was killed in Tennessee, after his place of concealment had been divulged to Union soldiers who shot him down without mercy and after he had surrendered:

"John H. Morgan, the Confederate cavalry leader, better known as Morgan, the Raider, was not killed in the Civil War, but died a natural death in Los Angeles, Cal., several years after the war closed, according to W. C. Morgan, 1221 Bunker avenue, Kansas City, who says he is a first cousin of the raider.

"John Morgan was at my father's home in Mount Pleasant, Ind., Mr. Morgan said, and stayed all night at the time he made the raid through Indiana and Ohio. In the spring of 1868 he came to my father's house on the way to California. Morgan and his wife were going by the name of Wm. Drum at that time. My father received several letters from him after his arrival in Los Angeles and he died there in 1874."

"Mr. Morgan says his father and the father of Morgan, the Raider, were brothers. Civil war histories have said John H. Morgan was killed in New Greenville, Tenn., September 4, 1864."

Soil Fertility and Farm Management Problems.

Two things which probably hinder the success of farmers, more than any others are the economical maintenance of soil fertility, and right farm management. Only by building up and by keeping up the fertility of the soil can large yields be continuously produced, but after this has been accomplished good farm management must be practiced in order to realize a good net profit upon one's investment.

Every farmer should know, to begin with, what amounts of the plant food elements, nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, are in his soil. All the other essential plant food elements are present in Kentucky soils in sufficient quantities for maximum yields of crops. These data can be furnished by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The analyses of the typical soil areas of Kentucky are now on file at the Experiment Station, and if relatively accurate data cannot be furnished for any particular farm of this state, instructions for the collection of soil for analysis will be furnished upon application to Dr. A. M. Peter, head of the Division of Soil Chemistry of the Experiment Station, and free report will follow. Samples of soil to be analyzed should always be taken according to instructions. Whether or not time is needed to correct soil acidity can be very readily determined by experiment upon a small lot in connection with the sowing of red clover. The plowed surface of a soil should contain not less than eight thousand pounds of nitrogen, two thousand five hundred pounds of phosphorus and sixteen thousand pounds of potassium in order that, in a favorable season and under good tillage, it may be made to produce a maximum crop of corn, wheat or oats. The soils of Kentucky, except in river bottoms and peat swamps, contains an abundance of potassium. Steps should be taken to add, economically, these elements to a content necessary for large production, and a raw ground limestone should be applied if experiment with red clover shows that the soil needs limestone.

After normal fertility has been secured, it should be maintained, and one good factor in the maintenance is good crop rotation. Crop rotations may vary in grain farming from those used in live stock farming, but in either case legume crops such as clover, alfalfa, cow peas, soy beans and sweet clover must be used to maintain the supply of nitrogen. In stock farming about every third crop should be a legume crop, and in grain farming about every second crop. By establishing crop rotations as above indicated and by turning under sufficient manure and green crops to keep up the nitrogen content, the fertility of the soil can be kept up, if in addition phosphorus in some form be added from time to time in quantities corresponding to those removed from the soil in cereal and forage crops and live stock. The basis for such computation will be furnished upon application to the Experiment Station.

The location of farm buildings with reference to various parts of the farm and to each other, the laying out of fields and fences, the establishing of draining systems, the working out of crop rotations, forms for farm accounting, etc., are among the problems of farm management which bear a strong relation to the success or failure of the owner of a farm.

The Division of Extension of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, at Lexington, has decided to offer assistance, as far as may be possible, to farmers of the State in solving problems of soil fertility, in establishing cropping systems upon the whole or a part of farms, in the production of legume crops, and in working out farm management problems. This assistance will be offered through correspondence, or when possible by visitation, without expense to owners.

BLACK PATTI.

"Captain Jasper" as presented by the Black Patti Musical Company at the Paris Grand on Tuesday, February 18, for night. There is a plot and story that is interesting. Friends of Captain Jasper, Colonel Warsaw, of the U. S. A., with his daughter, Lucy, when on the eve of their departure for the Philippine Islands for a pleasure trip, discovered the theft of very valuable papers to this government concerning secret plans of attack on the Philippine strongholds, also documents given in trust to the Colonel by his friend, Sergeant Jackson, intended for his daughter, Cheteka when she becomes of age. These papers concern an enormously wealthy grant of land in the United States, which some day will make her very wealthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, formerly Cheteka Castro, a native of the Philippine Islands, whose relations have become estranged, and having a longing for her native land, decides to return and take her daughter, Cheteka, with her. Here she meets Maj. Drummond, who acquaints her with the contents of the valuable missing documents left in trust to Colonel Warsaw. Through much persuasion, false promises, etc., he finally induced Cheteka to sign a power of attorney authorizing him to dispose of her property rights left by her father; just as he is negotiating to dispose of same at a great undervalue, he is detected by one U. R. Swift and his friend, Captain Jasper Charcoal, who afterwards stir up things for Drummond and others by being mistaken for the real captain.

Upon the arrival of the party in the United States Major Drummond, in an effort to escape, meets an untimely death. The stolen papers are eventually returned to their real owners.
